

Carter May Have To Give Up Fushimi's Punchbowl

Governor Carter's punchbowl and Secretary Atkinson's sealed gift from Prince Fushimi may after all have to go to Congress or, at least, be given up.

The United States constitution seems to be in the way of the acceptance of these tokens of the Prince's distinguished consideration. It is even suggested that the Governor may have fallen into a grave—well, indiscretion—in accepting Prince Fushimi's little token of regard, without first asking permission of Congress.

The article of the constitution which stretches out its inhospitable hand to snatch from the governor, the secretary of the territory, and mayhap Captain Sam Johnson, the gifts with which the Prince expressed his appreciation of his official reception here, is Article I, Section 9: "No title of Nobility shall be granted by the United States: And no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the Congress accept of any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever, from any King, Prince or foreign State."

There seems no doubt that Governor Carter and Secretary Atkinson at least, hold offices, both of profit and of trust under the United States. It seems also equally clear that the pleasing token of Fushimi's kindly thought is a present from a foreign Prince.

The usual procedure in cases of this kind, is for an application to be made to Congress for permission to accept these presents and when there is, as in this case, manifestly nothing more to it than an act of kindness or courtesy, or an expression of personal feeling, the consent of Congress is readily granted.

It may therefore be that Governor Carter may have to call on his friend Delegate Kalamianuiole, to introduce a joint or concurrent resolution in Congress asking that august body if George and Jack may keep the nice presents the Japanese Prince gave them.

As to Captain Sam Johnson he isn't appointed by the President as the Governor and the Secretary are, and so strong a case may not be made out against him.

But isn't it awkward?

SONOMA DELAYED SAILING TODAY

DEMAND FOR COAL WAS VERY HEAVY TODAY AS CHINA WAS COALING TOO.

There has been a delay in the departure of the S. S. Sonoma for San Francisco today. She was to have sailed at 3 p. m. but the coal was slow being delivered so she will not get away before 4 o'clock and possibly not before 5 o'clock. The presence of the S. S. China in port with a demand for 600 tons of coal has been the cause for the delay of the Sonoma. Coal carts were in demand and apparently there was a shortage. The band was at the Sonoma this afternoon.

The China may be delayed sailing at 5 o'clock for the Orient. She increased her original coal order by 100 tons. This increase may delay her slightly although her agents thought she would get out practically on time.

TRAVESTY STARS ON THE WAY BACK

HAVING SEEN AUSTRALIA ONCE THEY DO NOT WANT TO SEE IT AGAIN—BARNEY BERNARD HAS A GLOUCH OVER THE BARMAIDS—MAX DILL COULD SEE NOTHING BUT THE RACES AND ALL AGREE THAT THE AUSTRALIANS HAVE NO MONEY.

Well, they are on their way home. Barney Bernard, Kolb and Dill of the American Travesty Stars with their wives, as well as a considerable number of the members of the company are going back to San Francisco after their descent upon Australia and to say that they are glad would hardly describe their state of mind.

"Australia," said Barney Bernard this morning as he leaned over the bar of the Hawaiian Hotel and fondled a gin fizz in a loving manner, "Australia is the limit. Having seen it once I devoutly hope that I shall never see it again. Why you can't get a thing to drink except Scotch and soda. They have Scotch and soda for breakfast and drink it all day. As for a mixed drink, they don't know what it is. I even asked a barmaid for some 'plain whiskey and water on the side' and she said 'How awfully odd. How can you put water on the side of the glass?'"

"But when I speak of Australia I want to say a word in a nice way about Sydney. The people there were very nice indeed to us and we had no kick coming, as for Melbourne, well it's about the worst ever."

Contrary to expectations Maude Amber and Winfield Blake did not return with the others. They are still in Sydney awaiting the hearing of a suit for their salaries brought against Manager James, and thereby hangs a tale.

The story brought back is to the effect that when the Sonoma left James and his family were supposed to be still ashore, but the Sonoma was out of sight of land when James appeared gaily on deck and whatever process of Australian law there may be, it was not strong enough to bring James back to land.

Max Dill passes it all back to Australia also. The hot weather was simply frightful he says.

"You know how you feel on a good hot day," he remarked this morning. "You're looking for a breeze all the time, but you don't do that in Australia. When the breeze comes it hits you like a blast out of the furnace. As for the people, while we met some good sports here and there, the general run of them strike you as being dull beyond description. Horse racing, or rather betting on horse races is the principal attraction that the Australians seem to have and there are places where bets of all sizes from six pence up can be made. The Melbourne Cup is certainly a great event and the attendance is huge, but when it is remembered that all the center of the track is free to the public it does not represent anything like the expenditure of an American track on one of the big days."

Coming to a consideration of the tour of the company in Australia every one of the Travesty Stars spoken to admitted that it was as a whole a flat failure. A success was scored in Sydney after the Australians got it through their heads that there was no intention of a plot in any of the pieces put on. At first they would study "Fiddle Dee Dee" solemnly and expect a plot to work out like a proposition of Euclid, but when it dawned on them that there was nothing doing in the plot line they began to sit up and take

THE METROPOLITAN AND THE GRAZERS

CATTLEMEN STILL IN SESSION AND WRESTLING WITH A PROPOSITION TO TAKE THE METROPOLITAN MEAT COMPANY OUT OF THE RETAIL MEAT BUSINESS ALTOGETHER—THIS IS SAID TO BE EQUIVALENT TO TURNING IT OVER TO CHINAMEN.

After discussion lasting into the afternoon, the graziers adjourned after an agreement had been reached that the notice of the Metropolitan Meat Company reducing the price for beef cattle to the graziers should be withdrawn and the old price of ten cents a pound should be resumed unless the new Board of Directors should decide otherwise. The new board of directors consists of Robert Shingle, Senator McCandless, A. W. Carter, F. M. Swamy, S. M. Damon, Fred Wundenberg and Gilbert J. Waller.

The cattlemen of the Territory have been in session practically all day discussing the situation which confronts them, and the various theories which have been advanced to account for or cure it.

So earnest is the discussion and so weighty the matters that are before them that the cattlemen did not even take a recess for lunch until long after one o'clock.

The principle proposition around which the controversy has raged most severely is a proposition that the Metropolitan Meat Company shall withdraw entirely from the retail meat trade and confine itself entirely to slaughtering and wholesaling.

The retail trade is to be turned over to competition, and whoever wants to may go into it. It is argued that the combination of slaughterer, wholesaler, and retailer, which the Metropolitan Company has occupied, is an unnatural one; that the interests and duties of the three branches of business conflict with each other, and that much of the difficulty of the past, and much of that of the present can be traced to it. It is also argued that it is impossible to meet the present situation fairly while this unnatural combination remains.

The argument on the other side is that to give up the retail trade is to give up one of the profitable branches of the business, and in effect to turn the retail business over to the Chinamen, that the Chinese will be able to carry on business in a stall at the market or in some similar place, and willing to live on what an American could not possibly live on, will bring the business down to such low point as to prevent the existence of well kept markets where a complete variety of butcher's stuff can be obtained, and that a most primitive style of business will be introduced.

The primal difficulty is, as was described in yesterday's Star. The cattlemen believe that a deeper cut into the retail price than a cent a pound will have to be made in order to stimulate consumption, but they do not feel that they ought to stand the whole reduction. The question of the quality of beef also comes up, as it is argued an improved quality would of itself stimulate consumption.

The alternative proposition discussed, is the rescinding of the order lately issued by the Metropolitan Meat Company reducing the price of beef to the grazier from ten cents a pound to nine. If this is done, the situation will be allowed to adjust itself.
